Circular No. 2991-8, dated Bangalore, 18th—23rd September 1912.

It will have been observed by Deputy Commissioners that a large number of applications for gomal land and land for coffee and cardamom cultivation are rejected by this office. Undersigned has the honor to suggest that if the applications are properly scrutinised in the district and the instructions issued by Government from time to time duly observed, a good deal of work could be saved all round. Insufficiency of land for the village cattle, a large extent of assessed land already existing, the existence of hallas and established pathways through the land should, as a rule, be taken as details arguing against an application and any special reason that may be advanced as an argument in favour of it should be weighed against the reason for the general rule, before the application is accepted and submitted to this office.

2. It is necessary indeed to encourage the extension of cultivation and care should be taken that subordinate officials do not construe this circular as arguing an intention the other way.

To—The Deputy Commissioners of Districts.
